DETAILED ACTION

Election/Restrictions

Restriction to one of the following inventions is required under 35 U.S.C. 121:

- I. Claims 1-18, 22-29, and 32-34 are drawn to an apparatus and method for communicating image data over a computer network by attaching the image data to any MIME enabled electronic mail format data.
- II. Claims 19-21 are drawn to a combination of specific components in a system for transmitting and receiving fax data over the Internet.
- III. Claims 31 and 35-53 are drawn to a self contained fax data receiver and method of operation.
- IV. Claim 54 is drawn to a self contained fax data transmitter.
- V. Claim 55 is drawn to a method of transmitting fax data over a computer network requiring emulation of a PSTN connection to a fax machine.

The inventions are distinct, each from the other because of the following reasons:

Inventions I-VII are directed to related apparatus and methods. The related inventions are distinct if the inventions as claimed do not overlap in scope, i.e., are mutually exclusive; the inventions as claimed are not obvious variants; and the inventions as claimed are either not capable of use together or can have a materially different design, mode of operation, function, or effect. See MPEP § 806.05(j). In the instant case, components of each device and their operational steps are not necessarily commonly required between devices and methods. The devices can have a materially different design to perform the claimed function.

Because these inventions are independent or distinct for the reasons given above and the inventions require a different field of search (see MPEP § 808.02), restriction for examination purposes as indicated is proper.

Group I above contains claims directed to the following patentably distinct species:

- A) Claims 13-18, 23-29 and 34 specify fax image data attachment means.
- B) Claim 22 specifies fax image data encryption / decryption means.
- C) Claim 30 specifies user identification means.

The species are independent or distinct because the claims corresponding to each species contain mutually exclusive features.

Should Group I be elected above, Applicant is further required under 35 U.S.C. 121 to elect a single disclosed species for prosecution on the merits to which the claims shall be restricted if no generic claim is finally held to be allowable. Currently, claims 1-12 are generic.

Applicant is advised that a reply to this requirement to be complete must include an identification of the species or invention to be examined even though the requirement may be traversed (37 CFR 1.143). An argument that a claim is allowable or that all claims are generic is considered nonresponsive unless accompanied by an election.

Upon the allowance of a generic claim, applicant will be entitled to consideration of claims to additional species which depend from or otherwise require all the limitations of an allowable generic claim as provided by 37 CFR 1.141. If claims are added after the election, applicant must indicate which are readable upon the elected species.

MPEP § 809.02(a).

The election of an invention or species may be made with or without traverse. To reserve a right to petition, the election must be made with traverse. If the reply does not distinctly and specifically point out supposed errors in the restriction requirement, the election shall be treated as an election without traverse.

Should applicant traverse on the ground that the inventions or species are not patentably distinct, applicant should submit evidence or identify such evidence now of record showing the inventions or species to be obvious variants or clearly admit on the record that this is the case. In either instance, if the examiner finds one of the inventions unpatentable over the prior art, the evidence or admission may be used in a rejection under 35 U.S.C. 103 (a) of the other invention.

Comments

Applicant is advised that numerous antecedent basis and other problems exist in the claims. For example, in claims 2 and 13, there is no antecedent basis for the language "said conversion means". In claim 30, there is no antecedent basis for the language "said conversion means", "said converted electronic mail data". Also, claim 30 is an improper combination of a apparatus and method claim. The claims should be reviewed to correct such errors.
